

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

In a mobile phone 600, a trusted application and a download helper are executed to generate an area reservation request message for requesting reservation of a storage area for storing a program, data, and the like. This message is transmitted to an area management server 500. When the area management server 500 receives the area reservation message, it transmits an area reservation instruction message to the mobile phone 600. When the mobile phone 600 receives the area reservation instruction message, the storage area for storing the program, the data, and the like is reserved in an external memory. A downloaded program and data are stored into this area.